

New at

Free tools for clients. IVDD knowledge and daily care tips make the recovery period go smoother!

Dodgerslist's intent is to provide emotional support, hand-holding, and be a cheerleader for the veterinarian's directives during home care for all breeds.

A diagnosis of Intervertebral Disc Disease can be a devastating and overwhelming thing for clients. Commitment and a positive attitude to follow through on the important details of at-home care ensures the best recovery.

Many owners despair, lose hope after a few weeks believing their dogs will never walk again. Some euthanize their pets unnecessarily. Education helps pet parents learn the at home care routine for a paralyzed dog. It can easily become the new normal.

Doctor, Doctor. . . !

Intervertebral Disc Disease

1 in 5 Dachshunds, also known to be in other breeds

Oh, please if it is me, will my mom know what to do at home?

Place an order today for N/C brochures to use with your clients at:

www.dodgerslist.com/free-literature-2

Linda A. Stowe, Founder Dodgerslist

Linda Stowe

lstowe@dodgerslist.com

IVDD care topics in a variety of educational formats:

- Avenues for treatment
- IVDD care and support Forum
- Comprehensive IVDD website
- Reviewed for accuracy of information by appropriate veterinary professionals (ACVIM-Neurology, Licensed Veterinary Surgical Vet Techs and Certified Canine Rehabilitation Practitioner)
- Bladder and bowel expressing video
- Setting up the post-op or during conservative care recovery suite
- The need for patience to let the disc and nerves self heal
- Emotional support of hope for an often overwhelming diagnosis.

At your convenience, please review our website www.dodgerslist.com and consider referring your clients.